Dear Valued Customers, Partners & Staff Members:

We are fully operational.

We want to assure you that Trumbull Printing is taking appropriate precautions during this COVID-19 crisis. These precautions are designed to protect our employees, their families, and our communities as well as to continue to meet the needs and expectations of our customers and suppliers.

Rest assured that we are carefully monitoring the COVID-19 outbreak on a regular basis. Reasonable precautions to prevent the spread of any infectious diseases have been implemented throughout our facility and in our vehicles.

The entire management team at Trumbull Printing has also enacted detailed protocols to protect our clients and suppliers. This includes vehicle sanitizing and guidelines for limiting driver interactions with clients and their facilities.

Our raw material inventories are more than adequate, our supply chain and our operations are designed to provide business continuity.

This is an evolving situation, with governments and health authorities taking actions to protect the public in response to real-time developments. We will continue to monitor the situation closely and adapt policies and procedures in accordance with CDC recommendations, while communicating updates with you.

Please feel free to contact your Trumbull Printing customer service representative or a member of management team with any questions or concerns.

Sincerely & Best Regards,
Gus
